PRACTICAL JOKE

WITHOUT ANY HUMOR

Almost the entire aggregation of nembers of the McRae company were intertained at the Outrigger Club yeserday afternoon, getting expert truction in the use of the surfboards and the outrigger canoes. While the members were out in canoes a message was received at the Outrigger Club that Mrs. Wray, whose stage name is Laura Hudson, had been injured. The canoes were hailed and were brought to shore and the message delivered to Griffith Wray. Another message stated that it was thought Miss Hudson's back had

Automobiles were called and the player folk came to town. Miss Hudon was not at her hotel and the autos were sent to various places, including doctor's offices and the hospital, and finally Miss Hudson was found. She was shopping and was surprised when informed that her name had been used in a fake message and had caused so much anguish among her fellow players. As to her back being broken she could only account for that by the arge number of purchases she had made and was packing around with her from store to store preparatory to going to

The McRae surfers and canocists reathed deep sighs of relief.
